LIFE AS I KNOW IT

Forty ‘odd’ years of living life to the maximum I possibly could. This is what I know, what I have learned and probably what I do not know too.

PSYCHOLOGICAL WARFARE

‘Psychological warfare, the use of propaganda against an enemy, supported by such military, economic, or political measures as may be required. Such propaganda is generally intended to demoralize the enemy, to break his will to fight or resist, and sometimes to render him favourably disposed to one’s position. Propaganda is also used to strengthen the resolve of allies or resistance fighters. The twisting of personality and the manipulation of beliefs in prisoners of war by brainwashing and related techniques can also be regarded as a form of psychological warfare.’ – (Britannica, 2024).

Chapter One

‘Life as I know It’

Forty ‘odd’ years of living life to the maximum I possibly could. This is what I know, what I have learned and probably what I do not know too.

Jack Snelling (8NOV1972) announced his resignation as Minister for Health, Minister for the Arts & Minister for Health Industries on 17 September 2017.

"It was less than two weeks after the new $2.3 billion Royal Adelaide Hospital opened that the man in charge – Health Minister Jack Snelling (8NOV1972) – dropped the bombshell news he was quitting Cabinet." (InDaily article by Belinda Willis, Nov 10, 2023, updated Nov 14, 2023).

Why did Jack Snelling (8NOV1972) resign and why is he so heavily involved with Africa currently. After forty years of life and over twenty years of experience with creeps, political critters, and whistleblowing government cover ups - Here’s what I see...

This joke of a politician helped cover up illegal fire doors installed at the New Royal Adelaide Hospital. The government failed to replace these doors despite them being aware the doors did not comply with the Australian Safety standards, stating the hospital wouldn't burn down. How do I know this, I am the one who reported the breaches to business and consumer law and faulty fire doors to the SA Labor Government Health Minister.

One of numerous favours the government has given Studform Pty Ltd, a brethren community linked to paedophilia in the Southeast of South Australia stemming into Victoria. Darryl Peter Wright, a SAPOL police officer from South Africa with a defence force background benefiting for at least a decade in Australia from sex industry crimes and sex trafficking women from Africa to known paedophiles via churches and Gypsy Joker alliances.

I have seen a lot of paedophilia via churches, in South Australia. From the age of seventeen I witnessed a church led by a paedophile, myself moving the stepdaughter abused by the Pastor stepfather into my rental property to safety.

The connections between these tax-free paedophile preachers and government are broad, broadly damaging and very complex. The SA Labor Government led by three Premier paedophiles over the years. Three broadly known to be paedophiles in Sth AUS leading the state from the 35th Premier of Sth AUS 1967 through to the 45th Premier in 2018 that I know of. All three SA Labor Premiers serving as state leaders during these years alleged paedophiles.

Don Dunstone (DOB21SEP1926 – 6FEB1999), Mike Rann (Born 5JAN1953) and Jay Weatherill

(DOB3APR1964) misappropriating tax-payer money to fund the illegal sex trade in Sth AUS (and beyond) via grants, government contracts and other means, which both funded paedophilia as well as rewarded persons to be silent. Corruption of the most vile influence which has effects on each and every one of us.

Under Jay Weatherill (DOB3APR1964) leadership, Jack Snelling (8NOV1972) was appointed as the Minister for Health, Minister for Mental Health and Substance Abuse, Minister for the Arts and Minister for Health Industries. He resigned from Cabinet on 17 September 2017 – after I reported the faulty fire doors to the SA Labor Government. Jack Snelling (8NOV1972) announced that he would not be contesting the 2018 election, for which he had been preselected to the seat of Florey. He also served as the Leader of Government Business in the House of Assembly until 2017.

From here this corrupt politician renewed The Family First Party on 28 July 2021 with Tom Kenyon.

Jack Snelling (8NOV1972) has recently been promoted in the media for his journey from the halls of Parliament to a Kenyan slum, an unexpected career twist the InDaily media claims. The news was no surprise to me who has witnessed countless politicians involved in the sex industry furthering their careers aligned with ongoings ambiguously covering up sex industry associations. The state's former Treasurer and Health Minister is stated to be currently using skills gained in a twenty-year political career to help women ostracised from their families in Africa. It will be interesting to see how many of these women are relocated to Australia and married off into relationships as previously engaged via seedy, tax-free ‘said’ churches across the state of South Australia (and beyond).

Every action has a reaction. It is not always obvious, but each thing we do in life leaves an imprint. During my late thirties to forty – thus far my successes have attracted all sorts of comments, people, and desires within others. Inspirational is predominately the case – even if it was if she can do it, I can do it too (said in both a positive and negative tone). All of my boyfriends have wanted to marry me and/or regretted their actions and not liked being left behind – a lot of the time I think this is because they did not want to be the loser that was not their when I was successful. Because everyone could see that would eventuate, yet not everyone could handle that. When I was heavily modelling in my twenties and thirties people tried to feed me Constantly. Most not aware I was bulimic for most of these years, the agenda was not actually kind like you would think. I was never starved, poor or unhealthy and most of the people shoving food down my throat were my boyfriends jealous of the attention I was attracting, yet they wanted to flaunt me all the same. The others were my more beefy girlfriends – wanting to feed their ego by making you fat. Mainly out of jealousy. Jealousy is a curse – my mum always said this to me growing up. The only person that brings out jealousy in me is my partners and sadly most of the time they would deliberately try and provoke this feeling to hold my progress back. Feeding insecurities to try and break confidence boyfriends would try and belittle me and try and drive jealous emotions. Jealousy to feed their need to feel important, loved, secure – all at the expense of my confidence. This shit is shit you do not need in life. If the people around you are not in your corner, not trying to make you feel good, feel attractive, feel important, special, nice, etc. Those people are not your people. Do not take that stuff. Kindness is revolutionary and the most important element in humanity outside of love. You should feel important, special – however you desire. And those around you should be helpful, supportive, productive, and loving in your life. They should help you without expectation. Pick you up without a price, be kind without wanting something in return. People who do this are your people and these are the people you should cherish. Nothing more, nothing less. People who call you fat when their fat or call you fat and are not contributing to you being healthier are bitter – they are not making you better and they are not invested in making you better. People who are kind with a price, an expectation, an agenda are not kind – they are opportunists. People who hold you back, waste your time, do not give you room to be yourself are not supportive. If someone isn't trying for you without an agenda like you try for them, they are using you. You are worth more than this. You are special, you deserve love and after forty years of doing life, life has taught me to settle for nothing less than purity in intention. Be kind, always be kind whenever you can – yet remember kindness isn't a weakness. Do not be bullied by someone you need, just because they make you need them. You have the power to lead your life, live it alone if you need and create an environment for yourself and others that demands that you matter in it! You have one life, cherish each day. At the end of the day, you are matter – atoms and molecules in a big world and while you're here, you matter just as much as everyone else.

The world is ruled by old, out of touch and out of date men. A world ruled by conservative old women would be just as damaging though. After forty years of living and over twenty years of following politics and government roles of employment I have learned that we are always going to be governed by what people call old and wise – and this is right. Yet it is wrong to have people in power who turn their backs to progress and change. Wisdom and experience, no matter how old you are do not arrive in your twenties or thirties, not because people of these age groups are not sensible but because they cannot see the sense in it all. You haven't lived enough decades and generational changes to see the patterns of life, the weather, currency, technical process, repetitions in history. And to make a difference in leadership you need to see these commonalities - facets of life that drive life. Both sides of a story and that the building blocks of human needs don't change.

Shelter, water, food, love (from another or oneself) are our primal needs. Everything else we have created, materialised, learnt to rely on. Stripped back to basics, what war ultimately leads to is that as humans we need food, water, and shelter to survive. When we are feeding the ego of our twenties, we rarely realise this – peer pressure, societies expectations and social advancements make materialism a primal priority. Yet, these things are not the primary function of the human race – these things are the primal function of the industrial era. When we get to our thirties often family and children are our priorities, these things are the main things that plague the mind and life yet again they are not vital to live. In our forties we start to feel old and reflect on what we have done, what we could have done, what we want to do with the time we have left not realising the reality is that we still have much life left at this time most of the time. Yet, this is when wisdom sets in. We know better and we actually do better and that is why we are better led by old men and women. Not because their stuffy ways and out of date mistakes are relevant but because they can think more broadly, understand that time and taking the time to think things over is better than haste. I am talking about politics here – not everyday life, lead your own life. Fuck letting some old geezer tell you what to do if they are not paying you. It's your life, politics is about people and until you are at least in your forties you do not know people like you need to, to govern. Strategy comes naturally when we get older because you have the experience to understand and move through the bullshit. The menial, the major, the great and the small. Life as I know it now, compared to when I was twenty has not changed in my desires to be kind, human, great but now I realise life is like no other. That driving at ridiculous speeds is fun, but haste is rarely a necessity. Life is short, yet long. Everyone has time and second chances. People forget and the gossip of yesterday is not a priority forever. Being your messy, sensible, able, learning self will always be okay. Yet in leadership you need to be something more than making yourself a priority. Move with the times, be open to ideas and even if the fools are leading the pack, do not just agree with a fool because he or she stands at the front of the line. Eventually everyone will get to the front of the line, and once everyone is served at the supermarket and goes home to bake their cake the only difference between them is their baking skills, which is reliant on experience and the ability to learn, get better and the love put into it.

Chapter Two

‘Psychological Warfare’

‘Psychological warfare, the use of propaganda against an enemy, supported by such military, economic, or political measures as may be required. Such propaganda is generally intended to demoralize the enemy, to break his will to fight or resist, and sometimes to render him favourably disposed to one’s position. Propaganda is also used to strengthen the resolve of allies or resistance fighters. The twisting of personality and the manipulation of beliefs in prisoners of war by brainwashing and related techniques can also be regarded as a form of psychological warfare.’ – (Britannica, 2024).

I have been gaslighted, gagged by isolation and ignorance and raped to the point where I was being psychologically and physically tortured to push me to the refuge of suicide. If anyone knows the psychological warfare inflicted to demoralize and break the will it is me. And here I am to tell the tale and tell you all, you can make it, break it and come back better than you ever were.

Defeat /di'fi:t/ verb: win a victory over (someone) in a battle or other contest; overcome or beat. Is what the enemy wants you to feel – the idea of psychological warfare is to make you feel like you are defeated – even if you are not.

To feel burdened by the struggle, oppressed by the brainwashing surrounding you. Outnumbered, overpowered, displaced, alone, frustrated, stressed and most importantly wrong, rejected and dismayed.

Abandonment is one of the most important tools of oppression to be left alone in a struggle with no support in the world and in life makes everyday life challenging and has you not only surrounded by your own thoughts, but it exuberates dismay and drains the ultimate power we are born with love.

The American Army uses psychological warfare to spread its global agendas globally and locally. They promote these operations as: 'Psychological Operations (PSYOP) Soldiers benefit the Army's missions by using unconventional techniques. Their intelligence, interpersonal skills, cultural sensitivity, and foreign language proficiency help sway opinions and actions of foreign governments, groups, and individuals. Psychological warfare requires adaptability, resilience, and problem solving to be successful. To become a PSYOP Soldier, you'll be thoroughly tested and trained on your critical thinking skills, and your mental and physical toughness, in order to prepare you for work in the field.

Military Information Support Operations (MISO) missions involve sharing specific information to foreign audiences to influence the emotions, motives, reasoning, and behavior of foreign governments and citizens. This can include cyber warfare and advanced communication techniques across all forms of media. Military deception missions use psychological warfare to deliberately mislead enemy forces during a combat situation.

Interagency and government support missions shape and influence foreign decision making and behaviors in support of United States' objectives.

Civil Authorities Information Support (CAIS) missions aid civilian populations during disaster relief situations by sharing critical information to support the rescue effort.' – Source: Go Army, America (USA) website.

Not all psychological warfare is negative, yet all psychological warfare has negative effects on the person being manipulated if they find out about the psychological operations. Feelings of deceit ruins one's trust in another or a situation. Deception refers to the act—big or small, cruel or kind—of encouraging people to believe information that is not true. Lying is a common form of deception—stating something known to be untrue with the intent to deceive. Trust is the bedrock of social life at all levels, from romance and parenting to national government. Deception always undermines it. Because truth is so essential to the human enterprise, which relies on a shared view of reality, the default assumption most people have is that others are truthful in their communications and dealings. Most cultures have powerful social sanctions against lying.

So, what can we do when met with agendas of psychological warfare in times were everyone can display a narcissistic trait, narcissism is a form of lying and everyone thinks that they are an expert on the psyche in some way. Whether narcissistically, via body language or fake engagement to manipulate an outcome which generally is an everyday occurrence.

Here's my thoughts on how to handle psychological warfare on a large oppressive wartime scale and where smaller scales of deceit and narcissism are present.

When ignoring someone isn't enough, when you can't just walk away from a situation, when your everyday music resembles schizophrenia, when the universe is talking to you or you are just talking to yourself, always remember mind over matter. You control your thoughts even when they are scrambled, manipulated, misconstrued, misinformed, misappropriated or misunderstood. You know you best. Your inner self knows right from wrong and the best thing you can do when your mind is racing is slow down. Write it down, talk it out – even if you are talking to yourself or walk it off in the sun, if you can.

Tough times do not last, tough people do. We are all stronger than we think, bleed red, turn blue in the cold. We are all human and that is what you have in common with your enemy or friend(s) trying to manipulate you.

They might be bigger, they may be tougher, but they are just a human. They feel like you do, and they struggle like you do to. You can either attack them back using their own techniques or teach yourself not to react in the manner they would like you to.

Humans are emotive beings, even in a numbed, suppressed state. The only things that change this fact is drugs – illicit or artificial.

You are never truly alone in this world, like the movie ‘Castaway’ starring Tom Hanks proves you have a friend in yourself, your surroundings, your imagination. “I am enough of the artist to draw freely upon my imagination. Imagination is more important than knowledge. Knowledge is limited. Imagination encircles the world.” - Albert Einstein (14MAR1879 – 18APR1955).

Connected to everything we see, hear, touch, breath you can find comfort in almost anything you try and connect with. Even if that connection is just within yourself. To be defeated by oppression, you have to believe you are defeated. You have to become silent about that which matters, allowing the silence to silence you.

Meditation is a practice which is best conducted alone, in quiet as an individual – with oneself. White light meditation is a practice I have used since a teenager – an engagement of your inner light, you close your eyes. And think of a white light at the top of your head or in a place to which you feel you need healing and visualise the light in this place in your body. You may feel a sense of warmth through the white light. This white light is healing and will give your body healing in each and every part of your body. The meditation is a practise where we engage our inner energy, focus, and return to the basic light energy that we are, that we were before physical birth if this is what you believe – if you don't believe it that's not to say it is not true or does not work, it only means you will not do it. I practise white light meditation often and find in times of stress and ill-health that focusing on visualising this light in areas of pain helps.

Psychological warfare can only be effective if you get involved with it, lost in it, believe it. The truth at times is an illusion, but you and your thoughts are always real – even if they are not. Stay logical, focus on facts and be concerned in only things that help you and that could kill you. Everything else you do not need, and it will pass or you will pass away.

"Don't worry about hurting my feelings because guarantee you not one bit of my self-esteem is tied up in your acceptance." - Dr.Phil

Chapter Three

‘Rotations of the Sun’

The Sun rotates on its axis once approximately every twenty-eight days. A female menstruation cycle is approximately the same. The Earth takes an average of three-hundred and sixty-five days to rotate around the sun.

The Sun is the star at the heart of our solar system. Its gravity holds the solar system together, keeping everything – from the biggest planets to the smallest bits of debris – in its orbit. (Source: NASA)

The Sun and the planets formed together, approximately 4.6 billion years ago (stated in years 2020’s), from a cloud of gas and dust called the solar nebula. (Source: American Museum of Natural History)

May 2024 proved the Sun is a very active Star. A particularly stormy month as NASA refers to the activity, the first full week of May seen Space Weather Analysis Offices witness a barrage of large solar flares and coronal mass ejections (CMEs) launching clouds of charged particles and magnetic fields toward Earth.

This activity created the strongest solar storm to reach Earth in two decades — and possibly one of the strongest displays of auroras on record in the past five-hundred years.

In ancient Egyptian times Re or Ra was one of the most important gods - the sun god and the creator of all other gods and humans. Worshipped from approximately 2600 BCE, Ra was a major part of ancient Egyptian religious life depicted as a man with a hawk's head. He was believed to travel across the sky in his solar bark and, during the night, to make his passage in another bark through the underworld, where, in order to be born again for the new day, he had to vanquish the evil serpent Apopis (Apepi). As one of the creator gods, he rose from the ocean of chaos on the primeval hill, creating himself and then in turn engendering eight other gods.

Originally most solar gods had falcon form and were assimilated to Horus. By the 4th dynasty (c. 2575–c. 2465 BCE), however, Re had risen to his leading position. Many syncretisms were formed between Re and other gods, producing such names as Re-Harakhty, Amon-Re, Sebek-Re, and Khnum-Re. Aspects of other gods influenced Re himself; his falcon-headed appearance as Re-Harakhty originated through association with Horus. The influence of Re was spread from On (Heliopolis), which was the centre of his worship. From the 4th dynasty, kings held the title “Son of Re,” and “Re” later became part of the throne name they adopted at accession. As the father of Maat, Re was the ultimate source of right and justice in the cosmos. (Source: Britannica)

In Mayan ancient culture The Sun god was Kinich Ahau (K'inich Ajaw) – a 16th-century Yucatec name introduced during the Spanish Conquest of Yucatán over Incas. The Maya - Mayan sun god was designated as God G in this period, depicted as a middle-aged man with an aquiline nose, large square eyes, cross-eyed, and a filed incisor in the upper row of teeth. A bringer of life and harvests and oversaw many heavenly rituals.

Inti, in Inca religion is the sun god and depicted as male. 'He was believed to be the ancestor of the Incas. Inti was at the head of the state cult, and his worship was imposed throughout the Inca empire. He was usually represented in human form, his face portrayed as a gold disk from which rays and flames extended.' (Source: Britannica)

In Norse mythology 'Sol' (Old High German, and existing as Old Norse and Icelandic "Sun"), is feminine. Sol (the Sun) and Mani (the moon) drove each other in their courses through the sky. Sol and Mani were sister and brother depicted as fair and beautiful.

In Greek mythology the Sun is depicted as male. Helios — The Sun God of the Greeks drove a chariot daily from east to west across the sky and sailed around the northerly stream of Ocean each night in a huge cup. In classical Greece Helios is worshipped in Rhodes, where from at least the early 5th century BCE was regarded as the chief god, to whom the island belonged.

In India the Sun God is Surya (Hinduism) representing both the Sun and the Sun god. Although in the Vedic period (1500–5th century BCE) several other deities also possessed solar characteristics, most of these were merged into a single god in later Hinduism. Surya was once ranked along with Vishnu, Shiva, Shakti, and Ganesh, and many temples dedicated to him are found throughout India. Those five deities are worshipped by a group of Brahmans (priests), the Smartas, but only a small group, the Saura sect, worships Surya as the supreme deity. Surya is, however, invoked by most Hindus, and the Gayatri mantra, uttered daily at dawn by many Hindus, is addressed to the Sun.

Surya is the mythological father of many notable sons, including Manu (progenitor of the human race), Yama (god of the dead), the Ashvins (twin physicians to the gods), Karna (a great warrior in the Mahabharata), and Sugriva (king of the monkeys in the Ramayana). The Puranas (collections of Hindu myths and legends) record that the weapons of the gods were forged from pieces trimmed from Surya, whose full emanation was too bright to bear. His power was conceived of as dispelling darkness, curing disease, and heating and illuminating the world. (Source: Britannica)

Modern Turkey and Syria in ancient times worshipped the Sun as female - Arinnitti, Hittite sun goddess, the principal deity and patron of the Hittite empire and monarchy. Her consort, the weather god Taru, was second to Arinnitti in importance, indicating that she probably originated in matriarchal times. Arinnitti's precursor seems to have been a mother-goddess of Anatolia, symbolic of earth and fertility. Arinnitti's attributes were righteous judgment, mercy, and royal authority. The powerful Hittite queen Puduhepa adopted Arinnitti as her protectress; the queen's seal showed her in the goddess' embrace. (Source: Britannica)

In the Aztec region Huitzilopochtli, is the god of the sun and of war. One of the two principal deities of Aztec religion, often represented in art as either a hummingbird or an eagle.

Over the existence of man, the Sun has been depicted as both a male and a female. I personally see the Sun as feminine: The Sun rotates on its axis once approximately every twenty-eight days. A female menstruation cycle is approximately the same.

Chapter Four

‘Pieces of Me’

Things you may know or may not know about me.

This Interview Questionnaire delves into some pieces of me that haven’t made these books thus far – so here’s some fashion based ‘Pieces of Me’.

INFLUENCER - TOP 10 - DIVING DEEPER INTO YOUR WORLD

Tell us a little about yourself and how you found yourself having a desire for fashion and posting it online?

I literally entered the social media scene when I launched my fashion label Barbwire Noose - Fear Is the Root of All Weakness. I've always been seen as fashionable, so it just made sense to model my own style and brand.

Were you nervous to go into a market that is already so saturated with influencers, content creators, celebrities and bloggers? What made you do it anyway?

No, I don't spend much time thinking about other's goals. I wish everyone success and have always been complimented on my Fashion so I 'just post it'.

How would you describe your style and define it?

Bold, edgy, Rock Princess with a love for black (Goth feels) and unicorn vibes.

Where are you located? Would you say that the city you reside in plays a role in your style?

Adelaide, Sth AUS. The most liveable city in Australia! I do think that where you reside plays a role in your dress sense. Adelaide is cool - so you can dress to impress or look homeless. Both stand out and blend in. Anything goes in the city really.

How would you describe your social media presence? Is it 'in your face' - color coordinated? Posted at random?

In your face for sure. Random is my style. Black. I love blending Bright and Colours with black, neutrals, fun, hip, trendy, classic - no limits.

Tell us how you would describe your 'diary' of photos. Bold, black, cool casual, professional when necessary. Out there. No limits style I think sums it up.

Do you have a vision when it comes to your looks or do you feel like you 'wing it'? What works for you? Do you plan your content or do you go day by day?

I plan and go day to day with content. No one wants to see business attire tripping up out hiking. Or dirty boots at a black-tie ball. Wing it is stress less, that said the daily grind of style matters too.

What are some of your favorite staple pieces in your closet? Your must haves when creating a look?

Raw cut sleeve singlets. You can layer them up in winter over a skivvy or chuck them on during a hot day and stay 'Cool'.

What is it you try to accomplish on your social media? Is it for yourself? For your followers? For both, etc. What are you thinking about when posting?

Everything I do on social media is for my Human Rights brand Barbwire Noose. A brand for the people to empower everyone to be their best selves by being themselves.

Who are you influenced by?

Currently (May 2024), I think Kesha is hot! Rita Ora is always A class looking. And J-Lo, always Iconic sexy.

If you could describe your style with a city, what city would you pick from?

New York - anything goes in that place.

If you could describe your style with a celebrity, what celebrity would you pick from?

Brittany Spears, a hot mess train wreck of talent and feel-good vibes.

Who was your biggest influence in fashion? A designer, a parent, a family member, a celebrity, a city, yourself? How do you get influenced today?

Me, I definitely like me - moody, mellow, out there, myself and a no boundaries style.

Who believes in you most? Who helps you bring your desires and your passions to life? Who shares the love for fashion with you?

My Mum and Dad, even though they are the worst at showing it. My dad's Mum, Nanna is the most fashionable in the family - other than me.

Did you have anyone who didn't believe in your goals? How did you overcome this?

The government. No one cares about the government's opinion so I overcome this by ruthlessly flashing my middle finger at their deceit.

What would you like to see changed in the fashion industry over the next few years? Not influencer related - but the actual fashion world and industry.

Waste, the fashion industry definitely has to discourage waste.

‘Every Barbwire Noose item worn by me is gifted to opportunity stores or upcycled (if in good quality). A Discount to recycle old brand garments to encourage the public to engage consciously in sustainable fashion pathways is an initiative created by Barbwire Noose. It involves encouraging purchasers to ‘Get Involved’ with this action by rewarding purchasers for returning quality Barbwire Noose threads (clothing) back to the brand after wearing with a discount on their next Barbwire Noose purchase.’ - ABO Book 4.

What is your favorite thing about the influencer industry?

A platform to express yourself and your voice.

What is your greatest desire? What would you like to accomplish in your lifetime professionally within the influencer industry?

Seeing Human Rights Matter and an end to dictatorship regimes.

What has been your great accomplishment to date?

Creating a Brand and fashion platform that stood up for Disabled persons Rights.

Have you ever gotten butterflies doing this job? A moment in time where you can remember that exact moment.... where time stood still because you were so happy doing what you love. Maybe a collaboration, an event invite, etc. Describe this - tell us about it!

Yes! The opportunity to be a ‘One’s to Watch’ designer at NYFW2021 was definitely a butterfly’s moment.

Time stood still after releasing Autobiography ‘The Story Behind the Brand BARBWIRE NOOSE’ publication internationally as well as when I waited for my trademarks to register!

What has been your biggest joy being an influencer and what makes you want to continue?

Being a voice for the voiceless (and looking good doing it with Gorgeous Clothes!)

What has been your biggest hurdle being an influencer?

Jealousy, you'd think people would be happy for you - especially mates. But all I seen from a lot of people was grabs at fifteen minutes of fame.

Will you do this the rest of your life or do you have a goal that is outside of content creation? What is your 'end game' within the influencer industry?

Yes! From fashion influencer to political influencer. Politics is the end game, but I'll do this with Great fashion sense.

Describe your perfect 'casual' outfit - PROTEST GRAFF Barbwire Noose denim, black socks or stockings and a Barbwire Noose signature print tee!

Describe your perfect 'Sunday stroll in the country' outfit - Barbwire Noose polo top collection t-shirt, Dunlap shorts and Adidas trainers.

Describe your perfect 'city' outfit - High Heels, Layers in winter - a cute crop in Summer. Black slacks or a white tennis style skirt.

Describe your perfect outfit! How can we find you most of the time?

There is no permanent style here. I either look homeless or like a million bucks. Like a home body or a boss babe.

Favorite brand?

Barbwire Noose (of course!)

Favorite Hairstyle - up or down? Natural or 'done'?

Down, parted to the side and scrunched. Full beach hair look.

Favorite Flower?

Daisy and Roses.

Chapter Five

‘Royalty’

“Civil society is a concept of peace between the peoples, authorities, and nations. Governments will elude Any responsibility over a society they are ultimately allowed to flounder.” – Marcia BNoose (Princess Marcia Anita HOBBS India/Australia), Le Droit Humain

The British monarchy's connection to the Indian subcontinent dates from 1600, when a Royal Charter granted the British East India Company a monopoly over trade with ‘the East Indies’.

In 1858, the company was dissolved in favour of British Crown rule. Three-fifths of the subcontinent was ruled by the ‘British Raj’, a combination of the India Office in London, the British Indian Government, and the Viceroy, with Queen Victoria as head of state. The remainder of India (more than 560 principalities) was governed by Indian rulers linked to the British Raj by a resident governor. These rulers were collectively referred to as ‘Maharajas’ and came from a variety of lineages. It was important for the Monarchy to establish diplomatic links with these rulers, and so in 1875 Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, embarked on a lengthy tour of the subcontinent. He exchanged gifts with each ruler he met and returned to Britain with an extraordinary collection of Indian works of art.

My Indian Royalty family heritage is ‘Maharajas’ as I have been told. Maharaja, (from mahat, “great,” and rājan, “king”), is an administrative rank in India; generally speaking, a Hindu prince ranking above a raja. Historically, maharaja refers specifically to a ruler of one of the principal native states of India. The feminine form is maharani (maharanee).

My blood line is predominately British due to my father being of a British origin ‘Hobbs’ - English (southern): from the Middle English personal name Hobb(e) association. The surname of majority British descendants and the hereditary origins of my Deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA - the molecule that carries genetic information for the development and functioning of an organism).

The title Maharaja was introduced sometime in the first century BC by the Kushāns. Influenced by the Śaka (Scythian) and Persian-Mongolian rulers of northwestern India, preferring the honorific “great king” to “king.” Chandra Gupta I, the third king of the Gupta period (c. AD 320–540), took the title mahārājādhirāja (“great king of kings”), a Sanskrit rendering of the Persian shahanshah. More inflated honorifics followed, and during certain periods even vassal kings with relatively small holdings were known as maharajas. India has been a land of several Nawabs and Maharajas. While monarchy no longer exists due to independence and the governments confiscation of land from the Royals in India, there are a few royal families who still live a life of heritage and luxury.

The British Raj was the period of British Parliament rule on the Indian subcontinent between 1858 and 1947, for around 89 years of British occupation. The system of governance was instituted in 1858 when the rule of the East India Company was transferred to the Crown in the person of Queen Victoria.

By the nineteenth century, the company had changed from a trading body into a territorial and political power in India – India's Independence. On 15 August 1947 India became independent from the British Empire following the Independence Movement led by Mahatma Gandhi and his message of nonviolent resistance. The handover of power was overseen by Lord Mountbatten, the last viceroy of India. The British administration feeling increasingly unable to manage what seemed a steadily worsening political situation, the then British Prime Minister, Clement Attlee, announced before Parliament that British rule would end in India "a date not later than June, 1948."

Two important reasons that prompted the British to withdraw from India are; Indian national movement became a mass movement. Britain needed Indian support during the Second World War. Congress offered to help the British government in their war efforts on condition of self-government.

The British Empire controlled territory that corresponds to approximately fifty-six sovereign countries around the world at different times to date (2024).

The wealthiest royal family in the world is the House of Saud - the ruling royal family of Saudi Arabia.

Chapter Six

‘Law’

Legal Maxims Matter.

Legal maxims commonly formulate a legal policy or ideal that judges are supposed to consider in deciding cases. Maxims do not normally have the dogmatic authority of statutes and are usually not considered to be law.

A legal maxim or legal phrase elucidates or expounds a legal principle, proposition, or concept.

"Justice delayed is justice denied" a legal maxim that you may have read in other publications of mine. It means that if legal redress or equitable relief to an injured party is available, but is not forthcoming in a timely fashion, it is effectively the same as having no remedy at all.

“A crime must be proved to have occurred before a person can be convicted of committing that crime.” e.g. Corpus delicti – The facts and circumstances constituting a crime and Concrete evidence of a crime, such as a corpse (dead body).

“The law does not govern trifles (unimportant things).” A common law principle whereby judges will not sit in judgment of extremely minor transgressions (offence, wrongdoings) of the law.

“A fact or statement of facts offered in evidence as proof of another fact.” - Factum probans – Relevant fact.

“Ignorance of law is not an excuse.” or “Ignorance of the law excuses no one.” means a person who is unaware of a law may not escape liability for violating that law merely because one was unaware of its content.

“Justice is to be denied to nobody.” Meaning as it states - no one is to be denied justice, no matter what, who or where.

“The law of the country.” The law of evidence is ‘lex fori’. It means the law of evidence is the law of the land where court proceedings are taken.

“Wrong or evil in itself.” A maxim that signifies crime that is considered wrong in and of itself.’ E.g. most persons believe that murder, rape, and theft are wrong, regardless of whether a law governs such conduct or where the conduct occurs.

“A man will not meet his maker (God) with a lie in his mouth.” meaning no man at the point of death is presumed to lie, a maxim relating to capital punishment, death penalties.

“There must be no crime or punishment except in accordance with fixed, predetermined law.” - meaning there must be no punishment without law.

“Things said by the way.” used in law this maxim refers to an opinion or non-necessary remark made by a judge. It does not act as a precedent. Put in another way, “that which is said in passing,” is an incidental statement. In law specifically it refers to a passage in a judicial opinion that is not necessary for the decision of the case before the court. These opinionative statements lack the force of precedent but may nevertheless be significant.

“Agreements must be kept.” means agreements are legally binding. E.g. International agreements – ‘every treaty in force is binding upon the parties to it and must be performed by them in good faith.’

“By the court.” - the decision is made by the court (or at least, a majority of the court) acting collectively.

“What one has earned.” or “The amount he deserves.” means A reasonable sum of money to be paid for services rendered or work done when the amount due is not stipulated (specified, written down) in a legally enforceable contract.

“He who acts through another acts himself.” is a fundamental legal maxim. This is a maxim often stated in discussing the liability of the employer for the act of employee in terms of vicarious (indirect, second-hand) liability.

“Let the master answer.” or “let the principal answer.” meaning there are circumstances when an employer is liable for acts of employees performed within the course of their employment. This rule is also called the master-servant rule. It holds the employer or the principal legally responsible for the wrongful acts of an employee or agent committed within the scope of the employment or agency.

“The welfare of the people is the supreme law.” Means public welfare is the highest law.

“Without which nothing”. referring to an essential condition. A thing that is absolutely necessary. Basically, a component of an argument that, if debunked, causes the entire argument to crumble.

“Where there is a right, there is a remedy.” suggests that where law has established a right there should be a corresponding remedy for its breach. The right to a remedy is one of the fundamental rights historically recognized in all legal systems.

CONSTITUTIONAL WRITS

“We command” (Mandamus) is a constitutional writ of the people commanding issued by a higher court to government and public authority to compel the performance of public duty.

“By what authority.” (Quo warranto) is the writ calling upon one to show under what authority he holds or claims a public office.

"To be more fully informed.” (Certiorari) A writ by which orders passed by an inferior court is quashed.

“You shall have the body.” (Habeas Corpus) A writ that demands that a person incarcerated be brought before the court to determine whether there is lawful authority to detain the person.

The writ of ‘Prohibition’ forbids a decision maker from commencing or continuing to perform an unlawful act.

‘Prerogative writs’ are writs issued by the King's Bench or Queen's Bench division of the Royal Courts - the monarch's right or privilege over subjects.

Chapter Seven

'Poetry'

Poems by yours truly.

UNDERCOVER

So I send you sweet nothings
In the chaos and the anger,
The boredom and the strains.
I send you sweet nothings
For what does it mean to love
Love a word to which has been turned to bluff.
Is it enough?
Enough to share my pain and peace
To hate and Love you unconditionally
To sigh and scream
To share a meme
Is it enough
To send you sweet nothings.
Is Love, just Love
Sweet Nothing Enough

LE DROIT HUMAIN

THE UGLY BITTER MEN OF NO SHAME

The problem is you let them,
Tell you what to think,
How to feel,
What to say and what is real.
Why hold back expression
Why not be passionate with force,
Why sensor your words in an adult world,
Where they also tell you to be heard.
Pushed and pulled,
Moulded and made,
By a fucked up world,
Breeding, greed, misery and hate.
Paedophiles and priests
A place where sinners and saints are the same,
Judge me by my words in disgust,
And I'll judge you by your lack of humanity in lust.

BLESSED HUMANITY BE

With a heart of light,
And soul of purity
Cleansed free of sin,
Gracing humanity:
Rough in cut,
Smooth by nothing less
Than humanity's progress
And his forever caress.

Careful in flight,
With no fear of the night.
The moon shining right,
With the sun always in sight.

BLACK HEARTS

It was the turbulence of love,

The trials of lust.

The distance and an imminent moment,

That broke us.

Emotions are so much more than feelings,

Than fighting

Than time.

The energy surging through life,

Derived from everything we survive.

Forever and momentary.

An iconic, unlikely love story.

A fragment of love in strife,

On every painful page to its destruction.

That made me forget you.

Why don't you want to try he said,

Because it is time to say goodbye.

You are always torn,

And I am Always broken.

All these words unspoken,

Are exactly what you have chosen

While I choose to live and die,

You chose to admire from the sidelines the hail.

Every force of deceit,

You played to keep as I weep
Every sharp pain in the back,
You seemed to pat right back.
Every greed that I would override,
You indulged in its subsiding.
The lying
The game
I'm tired and don't believe in fame.
I don't believe in glory,
I only believe in truth.
And Every time I believed in you,
You stood in the queue.
When there was no time to wait,
You chose to hate.
In the end it's all too late
For I can see no destiny,
Just a dynasty of disgrace
Years of unembraced embraces,
Amongst endless disgraces.
That is not love my dear,
It's something else.
Like love,
But not love.
As I let go of your heart,
I still hold your hand
Not because I want to
Because you need me to.
Fading into black,
There's no going back.
I don't believe in you
And you don't believe in me,

Anymore.

Marcia Anita Hobbs, 30 December 2021

BUT WHERE DID IT BEGIN

If I didn't love you,
I wouldn't have chased this at all,
All and all just to stumble and fall.
I forgive the need for forgiveness
Yet do I forgive the sin?
I believe it to be love,
But where did it begin.
In the stars,
In the sky,
In the love of the moon light.
Was this fight all were meant to be?
Are you my other half,
Or the piece that fell apart?
The place where I start,
The place where we part?
The bottom of my heart,
The point of cupid's dart.
We are SO broken,
You and I.
So broken,
Our pieces are falling,
From the sky.
Light in flight.
We unite you and I,
On fire this time.
I long for you,

A great desire,
Yet it's all fire.
A coal or an ember.
Forever together.

STAN

“No one stands alone in LOVE” The Forever My Child.

Imminent pain with no reign,
A constant hum of unhumble
Visions that pose so true
When words have no value in expression
When music is your muse
Live a life
Love a lie
Die in vain
If not to try
Never remain
As nothing is gain
In the light of night
In the dark of blue
Through every vision
See the truth
Dying eyes
A living soul

Chapter Eight

‘Fundamentals of Life’

Meaningful origin, actions and destinations.

There is so much fascination with the meaning of life, where did we originate, is God real, are we aliens and alike. I think that meaningful actions in our lifetime is the meaning of life and our final physical destination is predominantly the same - burnt to a crisp or six feet under.

I think the best way to pass away is to be consumed into new life, whether that be buried under a tree and being worm feed and nutrients to give life to plants so we can breathe, being consumed by other life - ashes spread into the sea, or honoured at a cemetery where memories and emotions ignite love. A meaningful organisation of love and a final destination of giving, to me are the greatest actions we can make with life.

In this chapter I'm going into facts about the brain and then ending on theories of who we are and where we come from based on my general learnings and how I see the fundamentals of life.

Our emotions are processed in several regions that together are loosely called the "limbic system." They form a ring around our "lizard brain" regions, which evolved earlier and is thought to be in charge of our primal instincts. Mammal brains have an outer layer called a cortex, so do we. The cortex helps us control our emotions and make complex decisions.

The 'lizard brain' - reptilian complex is said to control all of the instinctual and impulsive actions, while the 'mammal brain' - neomammalian complex is responsible for keeping the primitive instincts constrained e.g. controlling the impulse of eating.

In the 1960s, American neuroscientist Paul MacLean (1MAY1913 – 26DEC2007) formulated the 'Triune Brain' model of the brain. Which is based on the division of the human brain into three distinct regions. Paul MacLean's (1MAY1913 – 26DEC2007) model suggests the human brain is organized into a hierarchy, which itself is based on an evolutionary view of brain development.

These three regions are as follows:

Reptilian or Primal Brain (Basal Ganglia)

Paleomammalian or Emotional Brain (Limbic System)

Neomammalian or Rational Brain (Neocortex)

According to Paul MacLean (1MAY1913 – 26DEC2007), the hierarchical organization of the human brain represents the gradual acquisition of the brain structures through evolution. The triune brain model suggests the basal ganglia (reptilian) was acquired first. Followed by the limbic (mammal) system, which oversees our emotions or affective system, then the neocortex (mammal) - which is thought to be responsible for rational or objective thought.

Paul MacLean's (1MAY1913 – 26DEC2007) model claims that activity in the three brain regions (basal ganglia, limbic system, and neocortex) is largely distinct when we are engaged in each of the mental activity associated with it.

For example:

1. When we are in danger and must respond quickly, as an act of self-preservation, the reptilian structure is aroused, preparing us for action by initiating the release of chemicals throughout the body.
2. When we are watching a shocking news story or receive an upsetting message, the limbic (mammal) system is stimulated and, again, chemicals are released, which create our experience of emotions.
3. When we are making decisions, solving problems or reasoning, the neocortex (mammal) is engaged, without the involvement of the other brain structures.

Modern advances in brain-imaging have shown various regions of the brain are active during primal, emotional, and rational experiences. These findings have led to the rejection of Paul MacLean's (1MAY1913 – 26DEC2007) notion of a triune brain in neuroscience as this model is considered an oversimplification, the concept of a triune brain provides us with a useful way of assessing human analysis of sensory information, and the relationship between the structure and functions of the human brain (2003).

The triune brain structures of:

- 1) the fight-or-flight survival response and other primal activities.
- 2) emotions.
- 3) rational thinking.

The triune brain structure provides us with a neat way of looking at the relationship between structure and function in the human brain with much evidence showing various regions are involved in these three groups of activities.

Primal, emotional, and rational mental activities are the product of neural activity in more than one of the three regions addressed in Paul MacLean's (1MAY1913 – 26DEC2007) model, and their collective energy creates human experience. Paul MacLean's (1MAY1913 – 26DEC2007) model provides a clear view of mental activity, which can be beneficial when addressing the basic fundamentals of human nature.

Egyptian history shows a worship of reptile like Gods, evolution shows that humans are mammals. The brain shows evidence of both.

The idea of reptilians was popularised by David Icke (29APR1952), an antisemitic conspiracy theorist who claims shapeshifting reptilian aliens control Earth by taking on human form and gaining political power to manipulate human societies. David Icke (29APR1952) has stated on multiple occasions that many world leaders are, or are possessed by, so-called reptilians.

Conspiracy theorists espousing the extraterrestrial hypothesis claim reptilians either come from the Draco constellation or the Orion constellation or are allies with nefarious extraterrestrials from the Orion constellation. Others claim they are interdimensional, coming from another universe or dimension.

I believe that our planets formed of the big bang theory, the development of man based on ancient God like figures shows we could have been creations or evolution.

The Egyptian Pyramids were designed to have one side facing north, with an entrance passage geometrically aligned so that Thuban star system would be visible at night. Due to the effects of precession, it will again be the pole star around the year AD 21000. It is a blue-white giant star of magnitude 3.7, 309 light-years from Earth. The traditional name of Alpha Draconis, Thuban, means "head of the serpent". Thuban (α Draconis) was the northern pole star from 3942 BC, when it moved farther north than Theta Boötis, until 1793 BC. The Draco is a constellation in the far northern sky, is the origin theory behind reptilian aliens. Its name is Latin for dragon. It was one of the forty-eight constellations listed by the 2nd century Greek astronomer Ptolemy and remains one of the eighty-eight modern constellations today. The north pole of the ecliptic is in Draco. Draco is circumpolar from northern latitudes, meaning that it never sets and can be seen at any time of the year.

Orion is a constellation which is visible from most parts of the world. As well as being one of the eighty-eight modern constellations, it was one of the forty-eight constellations listed by the 2nd-century astronomer Ptolemy. Orion is the name of a hunter in Greek mythology.

In the Northern Hemisphere, Orion is most prominent during winter evenings, as are five other constellations that have stars in the Winter Hexagon asterism. Orion's two brightest stars, Rigel (β) and Betelgeuse (α), are both among the brightest stars in the night sky; both are supergiant's and slightly variable. There are a further six stars brighter than magnitude 3.0, including three making the short straight line of the Orion's Belt asterism. Orion also hosts the radiant of the annual Orionids, the strongest meteor shower associated with Halley's Comet, and the Orion Nebula, one of the brightest nebulae in the sky.

Orion is bordered by Taurus to the northwest, Eridanus to the southwest, Lepus to the south, Monoceros to the east, and Gemini to the northeast. Covering five hundred and ninety-four square degrees, Orion ranks twenty-sixth of the eighty-eight constellations in size. The constellation boundaries, as set by Belgian astronomer Eugène Delporte in 1930, are defined by a polygon of twenty-six sides. In the equatorial coordinate system, the right ascension coordinates of these borders lie between 04h 43.3m and 06h 25.5m, while the declination coordinates are between 22.87° and -10.97° . The constellation's three-letter abbreviation, as adopted by the International Astronomical Union in 1922, is "Ori".

Orion is most visible in the evening sky from January to April, winter in the Northern Hemisphere, and summer in the Southern Hemisphere. In the tropics (less than about 8° from the equator), the constellation transits at the zenith.

In the period May–July (summer in the Northern Hemisphere, winter in the Southern Hemisphere), Orion is in the daytime sky and thus invisible at most latitudes. However, for much of Antarctica in the Southern Hemisphere's winter months, the Sun is below the horizon even at midday. Stars (and thus Orion, but only the brightest stars) are then visible at twilight for a few hours around local noon, just in the brightest section of the sky low in the North where the Sun is just below the horizon. At the same time of day at the South Pole itself (Amundsen–Scott South Pole Station), Rigel is only 8° above the horizon, and the Belt sweeps just along it. In the Southern Hemisphere's summer months, when Orion is normally visible in the night sky, the constellation is actually not visible in Antarctica because the sun does not set at that time of year south of the Antarctic Circle.

Admittedly I don't believe David Icke's (29APR1952) reptilian nonsense of possession. My ex-fiancée Travis Paul Enmon Jr (DOB16JAN1989) is obsessed with the conspiracy theory which is why I have delved into facts surrounding this conspiracy. My DNA, with a British Indian background leads back to the British Royals. Do I believe that the Royals are possessed by Reptilians, simply put no. The basic origins of man are evolution, whether we were experiments created by alien beings that have evolved like bacteria, only God knows that. There is no solid proof of God or evolution, considering not all apes evolve into humans and no one has seen God. The only proof we have of life's creation is that we are atoms and molecules, we are matter of this universe and we evolve based on habits and where we inhabit, adapting to common physical activities and our physical surroundings.

The big bang theory leaves the question, what made the bang. If you were to say aliens, well what made aliens. I look at the world as wonderous and believe in universal law, miracles, and magic because I accept that we cannot prove how all things are made and have evolved. Out of dark matter, dark sky's and a world of nothing - there is no explanation as to why there is something other than what created everything is the energy of existence.

Chapter Nine

‘Truth VS Lies’

Be careful what lies you tell about me, some dick heads maybe corrected in these books. Defamation is costly. Perjury is a crime punishable by incarceration.

I am not a cook in a pub, I can pour a beer with my Responsible Service of Alcohol (RSA) obtained for Promotional Modelling roles which I applied to bar attender employment in Alice Spring Crown Casino in 2022 – that’s it. The role I worked in the Restaurant known then as ‘Juicy Rump’ involved waitressing – and myself bearing witness to the company trying to hush and cover up a rape that occurred at a staff event in the ‘Juicy Rump’ toilet. The rape of an Australian Federal Police officer’s son which was seeking compensation as opposed to rape charges against the homosexual offender – which I thought was odd. I have no time or desire to engage in the pub scene as long-term full-time employment. Residing not far from Adelaide in Truro, Sth AUS, May 2024 after cancelling a lease in Adelaide, Sth AUS due to sexual harassment in November of 2023, I was happy to help the owner out with my RSA. Yet, not happy to be taken advantage of by paid staff. As Trimester Two started with my Fashion and Sustainability studies, the idea of helping in the role of cook started to be floated about as a prospect by one of the cooks – a prospect which was far from my desire and timetable truth be told.

The covid (coronavirus) period slowed a lot of industries down, including the fashion industry where high fashion was concerned. The restrictions to events seen the scene diminish quite a bit. I was lucky enough to be authoring books at this time. Covid – the cold on steroids let loose by China hit the world and I was emersed in words, especially during the periods of 2019 – 2020. The need to constantly correct a book which was disrupted by law enforcement and defence force personnel for governance with a need to cover up paedophilia and bestiality is a disgusting truth. And was very time consuming, as one could imagine. It took me years to correct nearly two-thousand pages of words submitted to Royal Commissions and calling for a Royal Commission into SAPOL. A more disgusting truth is that bestiality gained a lot of popularity during the Vietnam War. Which means this disgusting porn and sexual past time is like a century long seedy, illegal problem. Germans claiming for years after this period that bestiality pornography demand s were high amongst war veterans. The Germans would know with their loose limits on sex in the country. The book ‘Sex, Freedom, and Power in Imperial Germany, 1880-1914 by Dickinson, Edward Ross’ - Is a study of the intense, complex, and escalating debate over sexuality and sexual morality that roiled politics in Germany between 1880 and 1914. That debate was grounded in the rapid evolution and growing complexity of German society - the multiplication of cultural groupings, professional associations, and social movements; the emergence of new social groups, social milieus, and professions; the rapid development of the media and commercial entertainments; and so on. All parties involved understood it to be a debate over the most fundamental question of modern political life: how to secure both national power and individual freedom in the context of rapid social and cultural change.

Brand Barbwire Noose has partaken in every Eco Fashion Week Australia (EFWA) since the event has been on our shores. It is not a 'not-for-profit' like its Canadian counterpart as it was initially sold to myself as. Cancelled in 2019 right through to 2023, following a long Interruption due to the Covid pandemic, EFWA2024 is back and hosting a month-long series of Eco fashion art shows, exhibitions, talks and workshops in Busselton & Perth - Western Australia. Dropping Queensland from the event seemingly – the second event in 2018 having a runway in Queensland, which was gorgeous I must say compared to the 2018 Fremantle football club venue to which disappointed many designers including me. Very excited to be partaking in the event this year (2024), it will be wonderful to see what the sector brings to the fashion industry table! My designs are focusing on the impact of humans on the Amazon and the heating of our planet. Barbwire Noose, BN Couture for EFWA is a collection with sustainability restraints of minimal stitching, cuts and zero waste, for EFWA2024 the collection will reflect and embrace the colours of our heating climate and the realness of climate change. I currently have three of six garments which are dresses of red, black, and tan tones. As a predominately drape designer, I have chosen full-bodied organic fabrics to craft these gowns for the collection.

Truth be told, as much as I am a bold writer, I am highly respected for calling out the diabolical issues I have. There are not threats flying around left, right and centre because I have called out paedophilia. Quite the opposite actually. The fact that under-educated big mouths tell me that because I have whistle blown the government, I should watch my back is preposterous. The government doesn't go around cutting brake lines, the police will definitely have a severe criminal negligence case if that was what they were aiding and abetting. On top of this, bikers across Australia have tried to out the paedophilia for decades including the Gypsy Jokers motorcycle club. ICE cooks and critters on drugs line up for drugs not murder sentences generally. Only joke opportunists play into threats over truth telling and truth be told I think it is gutless banter and I am not at all scared or deterred by the rhetoric. It does make me loose respect for those engaging the conversation and spreading such rubbish though. Get a life I say to you, mainly so you don't have to shit dribble about everyone else so much!

The truth of my time is – I am very time poor. Writing is time consuming and proofing books that are public disclosures is a full-time job. I am engaged in full-time study, designing streetwear, and sewing couture for my brand, so if I am taking the time to do something for you, with you or engage with you. Don't take advantage of that, because I can quickly enough type into one of these books that you're a nasty, time-wasting twat seeking fifteen minutes of fame and gossip because your life is boring. Which I sure as Hell will say, not only in these books but at some stage surely to your face. Facts are facts and your gossip is not fact. I am not bored. I find things boring, but rarely am I doing nothing. I work more hours in a day than anyone I know and have numerous roles that I engage in for my brand and as extra curriculums. I do not appreciate time wasters, bad habits or gossips misinterpreting my life because they have nothing better to do.

The truth of Barbwire Noose streetwear drip feeding designs since 2018. During disruptions due to whistleblowing and the SA Governments determination to cover up criminal negligence with SAPOL and other state law enforcement including the AFP I see it a stupid to waste the release of numerous designs to see them obsolete. I am far from stupid, great at marketing and a business owner. Barbwire Noose is a Human Rights fashion label not a walking façade like the paedophile police and government currently leading this great country of Australia. In 2024 Barbwire Noose released a males 'Broken Superman' tee and a UNISEX 'Not Everyone Is Your Rival' design to the streetwear collection. The 'Broken Superman' design has existed in my design's portfolio since 2012.

Chapter Ten 'Freemasonry'

"A man cannot lay down the right of resisting them that assault him by force, to take away his life." - Thomas Hobbes, Leviathan

Here I am sharing with you the significance of ancient teachings in freemasonry, where esoteric and symbolic studies benefit our understanding of the world as well as the significance of ancient teachings in history. As modern times evolves us away from nature to a more industrialised, artificial time where Artificial Intelligence (AI) technology drags us away from our origins and our unique connections to the universe, here is some hermetic philosophy for you to indulge.

Hermetic /hə:'mɛtɪk/ adjective

1. (of a seal or closure) complete and airtight.
2. relating to an ancient occult tradition encompassing alchemy, astrology, and theosophy.

THE KYBALION A STUDY OF THE HERMETIC
PHILOSOPHY OF ANCIENT EGYPT AND GREECE

CHAPTER I

THE HERMETIC PHILOSOPHY.

“The lips of wisdom are closed, except to the ears of Understanding.”—The Kybalion.

From old Egypt have come the fundamental esoteric and occult teachings which have so strongly influenced the philosophies of all races, nations and peoples, for several thousand years. Egypt, the home of the Pyramids and the Sphinx, was the birthplace of the Hidden Wisdom and Mystic Teachings. From her Secret Doctrine all nations have borrowed. India, Persia, Chaldea, Medea, China, Japan, Assyria, ancient Greece and Rome, and other ancient countries partook liberally at the feast of knowledge which the Hierophants and Masters of the Land of Isis so freely provided for those who came prepared to partake of the great store of Mystic and Occult Lore which the masterminds of that ancient land had gathered together. In ancient Egypt dwelt the great Adepts and Masters who have never been surpassed, and who seldom have been equalled, during the centuries that have taken their processional flight since the days of the Great Hermes. In Egypt was located the Great Lodge of Lodges of the Mystics. At the doors of her Temples entered the Neophytes who afterward, as Hierophants, Adepts, and Masters, travelled to the four corners of the earth, carrying with them the precious knowledge which they were ready, anxious, and willing to pass on to those who were ready to receive the same. All students of the Occult recognize the debt that they owe to these venerable Masters of that ancient land.

But among these great Masters of Ancient Egypt there once dwelt one of whom Masters hailed as “The Master of Masters.” This man, if “man” indeed he was, dwelt in Egypt in the earliest days. He was known as Hermes Trismegistus. He was the father of the Occult Wisdom; the founder of Astrology; the discoverer of Alchemy. The details of his life story are lost to history, owing to the lapse of the years, though several of the ancient countries disputed with each other in their claims to the honor of having furnished his birthplace—and this thousands of years ago. The date of his sojourn in Egypt, in that his last incarnation on this planet, is not now known, but it has been fixed at the early days of the oldest dynasties of Egypt—long before the days of Moses. The best authorities regard him as a contemporary of Abraham, and some of the Jewish traditions go so far as to claim that Abraham acquired a portion of his mystic knowledge from Hermes himself. As the years rolled by after his passing from this plane of life (tradition recording that he lived three hundred years in the flesh), the Egyptians deified Hermes, and made him one of their gods, under the name of Thoth. Years after, the people of Ancient Greece also made him one of their many gods—calling him “Hermes, the god of Wisdom.” The Egyptians revered his memory for many centuries - yes, tens of centuries - calling him “the Scribe of the Gods,” and bestowing upon him, distinctively, his ancient title, "Trismegistus," which means "the thrice-great"; "the great-great"; "the greatest-great"; etc. In all the ancient lands, the name of Hermes Trismegistus was revered, the name being synonymous with the "Fount of Wisdom."

Even to this day, we use the term "hermetic" in the sense of "secret"; "sealed so that nothing can escape"; etc., and this by reason of the fact that the followers of Hermes always observed the principle of secrecy in their teachings. They did not believe in "casting pearls before swine," but rather held to the teaching "milk for babes; meat for strong men," both of which maxims are familiar to readers of the Christian scriptures, but both of which had been used by the Egyptians for centuries before the Christian era.

And this policy of careful dissemination of the truth has always characterized the Hermetics, even unto the present day. The Hermetic Teachings are to be found in all lands, among all religions, but never identified with any particular country, nor with any particular religious sect. This because of the warning of the ancient teachers against allowing the Secret Doctrine to become crystallized into a creed. The wisdom of this caution is apparent to all students of history. The ancient occultism of India and Persia degenerated, and was largely lost, owing to the fact that the teachers became priests, and so mixed theology with the philosophy, the result being that the occultism of India and Persia has been gradually lost amidst the mass of religious superstition, cults, creeds and "gods." So it was with Ancient Greece and Rome. So it was with the Hermetic Teachings of the Gnostics and Early Christians, which were lost at the time of Constantine, whose iron hand smothered philosophy with the blanket of theology, losing to the Christian Church that which was its very essence and spirit, and causing it to grope throughout several centuries before it found the way back to its ancient faith, the indications apparent to all careful observers in this Twentieth Century being that the Church is now struggling to get back to its ancient mystic teachings.

But there were always a few faithful souls who kept alive the Flame, tending it carefully, and not allowing its light to become extinguished. And thanks to these staunch hearts, and fearless minds, we have the truth still with us. But it is not found in books, to any great extent. It has been passed along from Master to Student; from Initiate to Hierophant; from lip to ear. When it was written down at all, its meaning was veiled in terms of alchemy and astrology, so that only those possessing the key could read it aright. This was made necessary in order to avoid the persecutions of the theologians of the Middle Ages, who fought the Secret Doctrine with fire and sword; stake, gibbet and cross. Even to this day there will be found but few reliable books on the Hermetic Philosophy, although there are countless references to it in many books written on various phases of Occultism. And yet, the Hermetic Philosophy is the only Master Key which will open all the doors of the Occult Teachings!

In the early days, there was a compilation of certain Basic Hermetic Doctrines, passed on from teacher to student, which was known as “THE KYBALION,” the exact significance and meaning of the term having been lost for several centuries. This teaching, however, is known to many to whom it has descended, from mouth to ear, on and on throughout the centuries.

Its precepts have never been written down, or printed, so far as we know. It was merely a collection of maxims, axioms, and precepts, which were non understandable to outsiders, but which were readily understood by students, after the axioms, maxims, and precepts had been explained and exemplified by the Hermetic Initiates to their Neophytes. These teachings really constituted the basic principles of “The Art of Hermetic Alchemy,” which, contrary to the general belief, dealt in the mastery of Mental Forces, rather than Material Elements—the Transmutation of one kind of Mental Vibrations into others. instead of the changing of one kind of metal into another. The legends of the “Philosopher's Stone” which would turn base metal into Gold, was an allegory relating to Hermetic Philosophy, readily understood by all students of true Hermeticism.

In this little book, of which this is the First Lesson, we invite our students to examine into the Hermetic Teachings, as set forth in THE KYBALION, and as explained by ourselves, humble students of the Teachings, who, while bearing the title of Initiates, are still students at the feet of HERMES, the Master. We herein give you many of the maxims, axioms and precepts of THE KYBALION, accompanied by explanations and illustrations which we deem likely to render the teachings more easily comprehended by the modern student, particularly as the original text is purposely veiled in obscure terms.

The original maxims, axioms, and precepts of “THE KYBALIDN” are printed herein, in quotation marks, the proper credit being given. Our own work is printed in the regular way, in the body of the work. We trust that the many students to whom we now offer this little work will derive as much benefit from the study of its pages as have the many who have gone on before, treading the same Path to Mastery throughout the centuries that have passed since the times of HERMES TRISMEGISTUS—the Master of Masters—the Great-Great. In the words of “THE KYBALION”: “Where fall the footsteps of the Master, the ears of those ready for his Teaching open wide.”—The Kybalion.

“When the ears of the student are ready to hear, then cometh the lips to fill them with Wisdom.”—The Kybalion.

So that according to the Teachings, the passage of this book to those ready for the instruction will attract the attention of such as are prepared to receive the Teaching. And, likewise, when the pupil is ready to receive the truth, then will this little book come to him, or her. Such is The Law. The Hermetic Principle of Cause and Effect, in its aspect of The Law of Attraction, will bring lips and ear together—pupil and book in company. So mote it be!

Seek and you shall find. Read books and never underestimate time spent learning history.

Chapter Eleven

‘Opinions and Random Shit’

Opinions are like assholes, everyone's got one - these are mine. Plus, Anything but Ordinary random shit.

If animals could talk, the rats and mice of the world would know more than the CIA and the flies could reveal it all without fear of death.

Books should never be banned. If you cannot tell fact from fiction in a world of information, reading books – right or wrong, is only taking your imagination where you were eventually going to lead it.

Trust no one some much that you trust none. Trust none so much that you trust no one.

If all else fails, prioritise drinking water, some good food and sleep until your over whatever bothers you.

Mushrooms are underrated.

Art takes many forms, like it or not. The oxford dictionary defines ART as /ɑ:t/ noun

1. the expression or application of human creative skill and imagination, typically in a visual form such as painting or sculpture, producing works to be appreciated primarily for their beauty or emotional power.
2. the various branches of creative activity, such as painting, music, literature, and dance.

The human imagination has no boundaries, so neither does art.

Use deodorant, it matters.

Life is not like a box of chocolates; the packet tells you what you are going to get and even if it isn't your favourite – everything in date in that box is edible. Not everything in life is edible.

Greed drives the desires of man more than truth.

If you cannot say it to someone's face, you probably should not say it behind their back.

People get used to your help and your absence. Choose wisely.

Life is a gift, so is death.

If someone talks about another to you, they will talk about you to another.

Never be so naive that you believe a baker just because the delivery is sweet.

Time is a telling factor in life. If all else fails, let time judge those who you do not understand. People will always tell you who they are and what they want you to see in them. Time will tell you what they do not say and reveal what they did not tell straight away.

Not marrying is better than marrying wrong. – A meme and life experience.

Get up early and study, exercise, indulge a hobby. I cannot stress enough my opinion that life is too short to only do the mundane.

The only people that have your back are those that have your front, side, and centre too. With others in the room and when you are not in the room too.

Jealousy will always tell you more about yourself than another.

Eat your greens. A big plate of salad and vegetables with a small serve of meat will always be healthier than a plate of meat.

Don't let fat people boss you around. They are lazy, not helping you most of the time – just helping themselves, if only so they can do less.

Sitting outside on sunny days and enjoying the sunshine, in my opinion, is the best way to recharge.

Collect things you adore, find beautiful. Surround yourself with things you love, cherish, admire – things that inspire you.

The old saying, believe nothing of what you hear and half of what you see is good and stupid. If you hear a truck coming at you and ignore that – your dead. Be wise enough to gather enough information to make your own opinion and be astute enough to react with haste when necessary.

JUDGMENT AND PERCEPTION HAVE NO
VALUE HERE.

BOOK No. 6

EGO

The ego tells us that to meet on the level we should talk down to others or lower ourselves to be where they are. Serving the ego is mediocre, serve your highest self.

SERVITUDE

The servant leadership style is based on the idea that leaders prioritize serving the greater good. Leaders with this style serve their team and organization first. They don't prioritize their own objectives.

WHAT'S BEEN ON MY MIND

Light in your mind is better than darkness in your soul. Things, Stuff and Relevant Moments that have been on my mind.
